Subject: A response to the Australian Medical Association

Dear [Name]

Recently, two State Presidents of the Australian Medical Association (including AMA Queensland) made public comments in the media, strongly supporting water fluoridation.

Today, Professor Paul Connett and Fluoride Free Australia respond to these comments and ask how any medical professional and influential health spokesperson can ignore recent scientific evidence at the risk of causing neurological damage to our young?

One recent study in particular from Canada showed children in fluoridated regions are nearly THREE TIMES more likely to develop ADHD symptoms compared to children in non-fluoridated regions. This study suggests fluoridation chemicals may be a significant contributor to ADHD in Australia where our fluoride concentration is normally higher than Canada.

In addition to these 10-minute videos responding to the two AMA State Presidents, we also provide Professor Connett's 75-minute presentation titled:

"The Neurotoxicity of Fluoride: Science versus Denial."

This presentation includes the appalling manner in which NHMRC has ignored crucial toxicity science. We can only hope that all fluoridating councils and all State politicians in this country will watch these three videos and read the supporting page on our web site.

Ideally, you can view the web page containing these three videos by visiting our HOME PAGE and clicking on the first slide (top left).

Or you can go straight to the page titled:

Please also be sure to read the following two sections:

Independent research is required; and

The history of fluoridation in Queensland

Otherwise, if you haven't done so already, please sign up for our newsletter here.

And if you missed our recent TV commercial, you can view it HERE.

We are planning to screen this ad in Queensland on TV and YouTube because it's time all Queenslanders heard the truth about toxic industrial-waste fluoridation chemicals that cause neurological damage to our young.
